Opinion:

- Use of V belt causes some energy losses. There are power transmission losses of about 5-7%.
- The latest trend in the industry is to replace the V Belt drive with S.P.C saver belt and these belts have the following advantages:
 - i. Non-hygroscopic - prevents elongation due to moisture absorption
 - ii. Ensures better grip on the pulley

Automation of printing and cutting machine by using PLC controller:

Present status:

At Present cutting system is controlling in manual mode only. Based on requirements length required controlling with the help of operators.

Opinion:

- While operating manually error may arise, it will cause power loss.
- We can program when to start and when to stop in Automatic system.

Recommendation:

It is recommended to install PLC based automatic system to save substantial amount of energy.

Percentage Saving :

Saving percentage will be at least 5 %.

ENERGY SAVING SUGGESTIONS:

Proper insulation of identified insulation damaged areas.

Present status:

- Most of the units have poor insulation.

Recommendation:

- By providing complete and proper insulation, to avoid power loss in the system.

Savings percentage:

Approximately 1-2% of energy can be achieved.
